Who are the friends?

The South San Francisco Friends of Parks and Recreation are a non-profit volunteer citizens group organized to support programs and facilities.

What do they do?

The Friends raise funds through memberships and programs to help develop the Parks and Recreation Department resources beyond what is provided through the City's budget. Friends also help with many of the activities sponsored by the Department and participate in fun and worthwhile projects.

How do I join!

New friends are always welcome, whether they wish to become active in various projects or only to show their support of the group as dues-paying members. However you choose to support the Department, don't delay. Detach, fill out and send the application today. You are the key to a better community.
